ORDER ACCEPTING AND ADOPTING REPORT & RECOMMENDATION

SEAN F. COX, District Judge.

*1 The Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (“Freddie Mac”) filed an eviction action in the 36th District Court for the City of Detroit. Thereafter, Jerry Rush and Liliane Rush filed a counter-complaint against Freddie Mac, asserting the following counts: “Count I—Lack Of Standing To Foreclosure Under MCL 600.3204”, “Count II: Negligence Of Duty To Counter Plaintiff Established By Freddie Mac For Its Servicers,” and Count III “Wrongful Foreclosure In Violation Of MCL 600.3201 Et Seq.” (Docket Entry No. 1–3).

The district court entered a stipulated order to sever and transfer the Counter–Complaint to the Wayne County Circuit Court. (See Docket Entry No. 1–2). That Order also realigned the parties, making the Counter–Complaint the affirmative claims in this action. The Order also provides that the proceedings in the 36th District Court would be stayed until a final order is issued in the connection with the Counter–Complaint. Freddie Mac then removed the Counter–Complaint to this Court, based on diversity jurisdiction and federal question jurisdiction. (See Notice of Removal, Docket Entry No. 1.

On April 17, 2013, this Court issued a Stipulated Order that allowed the Federal Housing Finance Agency “FHFA”, as Conservator for Freddie Mac, to intervene in this action. (Docket Entry No. 7).

Thereafter, FHFA and Freddie Mac each filed a Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings. (Docket Entry Nos. 11 & 12). This Court referred the motions to Magistrate Judge Steven Whalen for issuance of report and recommendation. On February 14, 2014, after full briefing by the parties and a hearing, Magistrate Judge Whalen issued a Report and Recommendation (Docket Entry No. 24), wherein he recommends that the Court grant both of the pending motions and dismiss the Counter–Complaint with prejudice.

Pursuant to FED. R. CIV. P. 72\(b\), a party objecting to the recommended disposition of a matter by a Magistrate Judge must file objections to the R & R within fourteen (14) days after being served with a copy of the R & R. “The district judge to whom the case is assigned shall make a de novo determination upon the record, or after additional evidence, of any portion of the magistrate judge's disposition to which specific written objection has been made.” Id.

Plaintiffs Jerry and Liliane Rush filed timely objections to the R & R on February 28, 2014. (Docket Entry No. 25). Freddie Mac timely responded to those objections on March 14, 2014. (Docket Entry No. 26).

First, Plaintiffs assert that the R & R “erroneously states Plaintiffs argue severing of the mortgage and the note whereas Plaintiffs raise the issue of the failure to comply with MCL 600.3204\(3\). (Objs. at ii). Second, Plaintiffs assert that the R & R “performed an analysis based upon the securitization of the mortgage, which was not the crux of the Plaintiff's argument or claims.” (Objs. at ii). Plaintiffs claim the magistrate judge erred by not analyzing an argument made in their brief based on Mich. Comp Laws § 600.3204\(3\) based on there being no chain of title reflecting any interest in the mortgage by Bank of America, N.A. prior to the Sheriff's sale on January 10, 2012. (Objs. at 4). A motion for judgment on the pleadings, however, analyzes the sufficiency of the claims made in the complaint—not claims asserted in a response brief. The magistrate judge analyzed Count I as a claim based on severing of the mortgage and securitization of the mortgage because that is what Plaintiffs alleged in their Counter-Complaint. Plaintiffs' Counter-Complaint made no reference to subsection 3 of Mich. Comp. Laws § 600.3204 nor did it contain factual allegations to support a claim based upon that subsection. The Court therefore finds these first and second objections without merit.

*2 Next, Plaintiff assert that they “raise issues of negligence and non compliance with the HAMP regulations as a defense to foreclosure that were not addressed by the Court and appear to be lumped into the ‘fraud’ analysis as a catch-all for Plaintiffs' remaining claims.” (Objs. at ii). In making this objection, Plaintiffs appear to fault the magistrate judge for not addressing whether or not they may raise certain affirmative defenses to foreclosure. (See Objs. at 10) (“Plaintiffs specifically argued, even if this Honorable Court were to hold that the HAMP does not create a private cause of action for Plaintiffs, this Court should still hold that Plaintiff are entitled to raise the failure to evaluate their loan for modification as a defense to foreclosure.”).

Plaintiffs fail to recognize that, pursuant to the stipulation they entered into the state court, the summary proceedings to recover possession of the property were not transferred to this Court. The parties stipulated and agreed that the “Counter-Complaint only” was to be severed and transferred to the Wayne County Circuit Court, which was then removed to this Court. Thus, only Plaintiff's “affirmative claims” (i.e., their counter-claims) were removed to this Court.

The magistrate judge was asked to analyze the two Motions for Judgment on the Pleadings that sought to dismiss Plaintiffs' Counter-Claims. Those motions asked the Court to dismiss the counter-claims asserted by Plaintiffs. The magistrate judge did not err by failing to include recommendations regarding affirmative defenses because Plaintiffs' affirmative defenses are not at issue in the limited action before this Court.

The Court hereby ADOPTS the February 14, 2014 R & R. IT IS ORDERED that the pending Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings filed by Defendant Freddie Mac (Docket Entry No. 12) and the Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings filed by Intervenor Federal Housing Finance Agency (Docket Entry No. 11) are GRANTED and Plaintiffs' Counter-Complaint shall be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

R. STEVEN WHALEN, United States Magistrate Judge.

On March 25, 2013, Defendant Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation (“Freddie Mac”) removed this action from the Wayne County Circuit Court. Freddie Mac had filed an eviction action in the 36th District Court for the City of Detroit, and Plaintiffs Jerry Rush and Liliane Rush filed a counter-complaint. Freddie Mac then removed the Plaintiffs' counter-complaint to this Court based on both diversity and federal question jurisdiction. Before the Court is a Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings filed by Defendant Freddie Mac [Doc. # 12] and a Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings filed by Intervenor Federal Housing Finance Agency (“FHFA”) [Doc # 11].¹ Both motions have been referred for Reports and Recommendations pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 636\(b\)\(1\)\(B\). For the reasons discussed below, I recommend that both motions be GRANTED and that the Plaintiff's counter-complaint be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.

I. FACTS

*3 In 2008, Plaintiffs obtained a mortgage loan in the amount of $168,500 from Quicken Loans, granting a mortgage on the subject property to Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems², Inc. (“MERS”), as nominee for Quicken Loans and its successors and assigns. On September 26, 2011, MERS assigned the mortgage to Bank of America, N.A. (“BANA”), “successor by merger to BAC Home Loans Servicing LP fka Countrywide Home Loans Servicing L.P.” Plaintiffs subsequently defaulted on the mortgage, and Bank of America foreclosed by advertisement under M.C.L. § 600.320 1, et seq. Defendant Freddie Mac purchased the property at a foreclosure sale on November 16, 2011. Plaintiff did not and has not redeemed the property.

In May, 2012, Freddie Mac initiated an eviction action in 36th District Court. Plaintiffs filed a counter-complaint, which was removed to this Court. The Plaintiffs' counter-complaint contains the following claims: (1) because the loan was “securitized,” the assignment (apparently referring to BANA) was invalid because both the mortgage and the note should have been assigned. In other words, the mortgage was severed from the note. Therefore, Plaintiffs claim, “Freddie Mac has no authority or standing to foreclose or evict on the note.” Counter-Complaint, ¶ 13; (2) At the time Freddie Mac held the mortgage, Plaintiffs were seeking a loan modification under the Home Affordable Modification Program (“HAMP”). Plaintiffs claim that because Freddie Mac is a government agency, its acquisition of the property through Michigan’s foreclosure by advertisement statute deprived Plaintiffs of their property interest without due process; and (3) Plaintiffs allege that the foreclosure sale itself was invalid.

II. STANDARD OF REVIEW

A motion for judgment on the pleadings pursuant to Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(c) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure is subject to the same standards of review as a Rule 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted. Grindstaff v. Green, 133 F.3d 416, 421 (6th Cir.1998). Fed.R.Civ.P. 12(b)(6) provides for dismissal of a complaint “for failure of the pleading to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.” Rule 12(b) also provides that if, on consideration of a motion under paragraph (6), “matters outside the pleadings are presented to and not excluded by the court, the motion shall be treated as one for summary judgment and disposed of as provided in Rule 56 (summary judgment).” “In assessing a Rule 12(b)(6) motion, the court accepts the plaintiff’s factual allegations as true, and asks whether, as a matter of law, the plaintiff is entitled to legal relief. Rippy v. Hattaway, 270 F.3d 416, 419 (6th Cir.2001).

In assessing the legal sufficiency of a complaint, the court must first determine whether a complaint contains factual allegations, as opposed to legal conclusions. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 662 U.S. 662, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 173 L.Ed.2d 868 (2009). “Threadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported by mere conclusory statements, do not suffice.” Id., 556 U.S. at 676 (citing Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555, 127 S.Ct. 1955, 1964–1965, 167 L.Ed.2d 929 (2007)). Second, the facts that are pled must show a “plausible” claim for relief, which the Court described as follows:

*4 “Determining whether a complaint states a plausible claim for relief will, as the Court of Appeals observed, be a context-specific task that requires the reviewing court to draw on its judicial experience and common sense. But where the well-pleaded facts do not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of misconduct, the complaint has alleged—but it has not shown—that the pleader is entitled to relief.”

III. DISCUSSION

A. Due Process

Plaintiffs contend that Freddie Mac is a governmental agency, and thus subject to the strictures of the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment. The overwhelming weight of authority says that Plaintiffs are wrong.

First, some background on Freddie Mac and the FHFA. In the brief in support of their motion [Doc. # 11] the FHFA describes these entities as follows:

“Freddie Mac, created by Congress in 1970, see Pub.L. 91–351, § 303 (July 24, 1970), operates in the secondary mortgage market, purchasing residential mortgages and thereby providing mortgage lenders with capita that they can then use to fund additional mortgage loans. 12 U.S.C. § 1451(b). In 2008, during the midst of the recent financial crisis, Congress created HFA and empowered it to act as a conservator or receiver of Freddie Mac in certain circumstances for purposes of ‘reorganizing, rehabilitating, or winding up [Freddie Mac’s] affairs.’ 12 U.S.C. § 4617(a) (2). On September 6, 2008, FHFA’s director placed Freddie Mac (and Fannie Mae) into conservatorship.” Id. at 3.

The Due Process Clause applies only to the government, not to private or nongovernmental entities. “[T]here is no constitutional right to be free from harm inflicted by private actors. A due process claim lies only against a governmental defendant.” Krukemyer v. Forcum, 475 Fed.Appx. 563, 566, 2012 WL 1139007, *2 (6th Cir.2012), citing Polk Cnty. v. Dodson, 454 U.S. 312, 318 n. 7, 102 S.Ct. 445, 70 L.Ed.2d 509 (1991). See also Public Utils. Comm’n v. Pollak, 343 U.S. 451, 461, 72 S.Ct. 813, 96 L.Ed. 1068 (1952).

Lebron v. National Passenger Railroad Corporation, 513 U.S. 374, 115 S.Ct. 961, 130 L.Ed.2d 902 (1995), sets forth the test for determining whether a private corporation (whether or not it is created by Congress) is considered a governmental agency for purposes of constitutional liability. The essential element of that test is whether “the Government creates a corporation by special law, for the furtherance of governmental objectives, and retains for itself permanent authority to appoint a majority of the directors of that corporation.” Id. at 400. FMHA correctly points out that under the Housing and Economic Recovery Act of 2008, Freddie Mac's entire Board of Directors is elected by common shareholders, not appointed by the government. 12 U.S.C. § 1452(a)(2)(A). Thus, under the Lebron test, Freddie Mac is not a governmental entity.

Plaintiffs rely on two Michigan trial court decisions in support of their claim that Freddie Mac is a governmental agency bound by the Fifth Amendment. The first is Fannie Mae v. Everingham, No. 12–1286–LT (Mich. 55th District Court, 4/9/13). However, that case was reversed by the Ingham County Circuit Court in Fannie Mae v. Everingham, No. 13–430–AV (Ingham County Circuit Court, 1/14/14).³ Applying the Lebron test, the Circuit Court held that not only was Fannie Mae not a governmental actor, but that “consistent with other federal courts that have addressed the issue presented here, [] FHFA's conservatorship of Fannie Mae does not and cannot transform that private corporation into a governmental actor....”

*5 Currently, the sole authority in support of Plaintiffs' position is Federal Home Loan Mortg. Corp. v. Kelley, No. 12–885–AV (Ingham County Circuit Court, 2/12/13).⁴ Counterposed against this, virtually every federal court in Michigan to have addressed the issue has held that Freddie Mac and Fannie Mae are not governmental actors, notwithstanding the conservatorship of FHFA.⁵ See e.g., Fed. Home Loan Mortg. Corp. v. Matthews–Gaines, 2013 WL 423777 (E.D.Mich.2013) (Cook, J.); Lopez v. Bank of America, N.A., 920 Fed.Supp.2d 798 (W.D.Mich.2013) (Bell, J.); Yousif v. Fed. Nat'l Mortg. Corp., 2013 WL 980159 (E.D.Mich.2013) (Steeh, J.); William v. Fed. Nat'l Mortg. Corp., 2013 W 5445883 (E.D.Mich.2013) (Roberts, J.).⁶

Lebron dictates a finding that Freddie Mac is not a government actor. I will go with the weight of authority on this point rather than an outlier state court decision that is on appeal, and recommend that Plaintiffs' claims based on the Due Process Clause be dismissed.

B. Severing the Mortgage and the Note

Contrary to Plaintiffs' claim, it is not necessary, under Michigan law, that the foreclosing party be the assignee of both the mortgage and the promissory note. The Michigan Supreme Court's decision in Residential Funding Co., L.L. C. v. Saurman, 490 Mich. 909, 805 N.W.2d 183 (2011), is fatal to Plaintiff's argument. Saurman held:

“[A]s record-holder of the mortgage, MERS owned a security lien on the properties, the continued existence of which was contingent upon the satisfaction of the indebtedness. This interest in the indebtedness-i.e., the ownership of legal title to a security lien whose existence is wholly contingent on the satisfaction of the indebtedness-authorized MERS to foreclose by advertisement under MCL 600.3204(l)(d).

* * *

“[T]he Legislature's use of the phrase ‘interest in the indebtedness’ to denote a category of parties entitled to foreclose by advertisement indicates the intent to include mortgagees of record among the parties entitled to foreclose by advertisement, along with parties who ‘own[] the indebtedness’ and parties who act as ‘the servicing agent of the mortgage.’ ” [Saurman II, 490 Mich. 909, 805 N.W.2d 183, quoting MCL 600.3204(l)(d).]

Based on Saurman, this district has rejected Plaintiffs' arguments. In Yousif v. Bank of New York Mellon 2012 WL 2403472, *3 (E.D.Mich.2012), Judge Duggan held:

“Plaintiffs contend that Defendant did not own an interest in the indebtedness secured by the mortgage, and was therefore not permitted to foreclose by advertisement. Compl. ¶¶ 7–9. The Court disagrees. Defendant held a mortgage which was contingent upon the satisfaction of the promissory note. The Michigan Supreme Court has held that such a mortgage is an ‘interest in the indebtedness’ which permits the mortgage holder to foreclose by advertisement. Residential Funding Co., L.L. C. v. Saurman, 490 Mich. 909, 805 N.W.2d 183 (Mich.2011).”

*6 Moreover, under Saurman, MERS, as assignee having an “interest in the indebtedness,” not only had the right to foreclose, but the right to assign its interest to BANA, thereby giving BANA the right to foreclose. See Fortson v. Federal Home Loan Mortg. Corp. 2012 WL L 1183692, *3 (E.D.Mich.2012) (“The Saurman court held that MERS or an assignee of MERS can complete a foreclosure by advertisement because ‘it is the owner ... of an interest in the indebtedness secured by the mortgage.’ Id. A mortgage assignment by MERS and eventual foreclosure sale by the assignee is consistent with the foreclosure by advertisement statute.”). Forston also rejected Plaintiff’s argument in this case that the “severance” of the note and the mortgage nullified the Defendants’ right to foreclose:

Consistent with the Saurman decision, Wells Fargo had the right to receive the assignment of plaintiff’s former mortgage [from MERS], and to foreclose upon it when plaintiff defaulted under the loan. The separation of the note and the mortgage, if true, did not extinguish Wells Fargo’s mortgage on the subject property. Id. at *6, 805 N.W.2d 183

See also Collins v. Wickersham, 2012 WL 995208, *4 (E.D.Mich.2012) (“Saurman recognized that MERS has a right to foreclose by advertisement where it is the mortgagee as nominee for the lender. 490 Mich. at 909, 805 N.W.2d at 183. MERS was therefore able to assign that same right to Wells Fargo.”).

Plaintiff also appears to challenge BANA’s right to foreclose based on the securitization of the mortgage. This appears to be essentially a “chain of title” argument that the Sixth Circuit rejected in Livonia Properties Holdings, LLC v. 12840–12976 Farmington Road Holdings, LLC, 399 Fed.Appx. 97, 102–103, 2010 WL 4275305, *4 (6th Cir.2010). In that case, Lehman Brothers, the original mortgagee, assigned the mortgage to “LaSalle Bank National Association as Trustee for the registered holders of LB–UBS Commercial Mortgage Trust 2005–C–1, Commercial Mortgage Pass–Through Certificates, Series 2005–C1 (the ‘Trust’).” This assignment was recorded with the Register of Deeds. However, there were also interim unrecorded assignments that occurred in the context of a pooling and servicing agreement.

The Sixth Circuit in Livonia Properties endorsed and affirmed the district court’s holding that “record chain of title is comprised of documents that were filed in the County Register of Deeds’ office.” Id. at 100–101. The Court held:

“This [public] record shows a clear chain of title from the original mortgagee to Farmington. Although Livonia has not articulated any alternative definition of ‘record chain of title,’ its argument clearly rests on the position that the term includes any and all interests in the property ever held by any individual or entity. This position is not supported by the case law.” Id. (Emphasis added).

The Court also relied on Arnold v. DMR Financial Services, Inc., 448 Mich. 671, 532 N.W.2d 852 (1995), which it discussed as follows:

*7 “In [Arnold], DMR, the financial institution foreclosing on the mortgage, had granted a security interest in the mortgage to another entity, which did not record its interest. The foreclosed party argued that the foreclosure was not carried out in accordance with the statute because the security assignment was not within the chain of title. The Michigan Supreme Court disagreed, restating its long-held position that ‘the presence of an unrecorded security assignment was irrelevant.’ Id. at 856. Arnold actually involved a prior version of the foreclosure-by-advertisement statute that said that all assignments must be recorded. Id. at 855. Even under that stronger language, which is clearly more favorable to Livonia’s position than the current requirement that the foreclosing party have ‘record chain of title,’ the Michigan Supreme Court was clear that the lack of recordation did not invalidate the foreclosure.” Id. (Emphasis added).

In short, under Michigan law there is a proper “chain of title” of the mortgage in this case from MERS to BANA. And as discussed above, any “severance” of the mortgage from the note occasioned by the securitization has no bearing on BANA’s right to foreclose, as assignee of MERS.

C. Validity of the Foreclosure Sale

Plaintiffs lack standing to challenge the foreclosure and sale of their property. In Michigan, the failure to redeem the property within the six-month period following a foreclosure by advertisement divests the former owner of all rights to the property. Piotrowski v. State Land Office Bd., 302 Mich. 179, 4 N.W.2d 514 (1942) (because “[p]laintiffs did not avail themselves of their right of redemption in the foreclosure proceedings,” all “rights in and to the property were extinguished” at the end of the foreclosure period). Id. at 187, 4 N.W.2d 514; M.C.L. § 600.3236⁷; Conlin v. MERS, 714 F.3d 355, 359 (6th Cir.2013) (citing Piotrowski).

In exception to the general rule, “Michigan courts allow ‘an equitable extension of the period to redeem from a statutory foreclosure sale in connection with a mortgage foreclosed by advertisement and posting of notice’ in order to keep a plaintiff’s suit viable, provided he makes ‘a clear showing of fraud, or irregularity’ by the defendant.” El-Seblani v. IndyMac Mortg. Services, 2013 WL 69226, *3 (6th Cir. January 7, 2013) (citing Schulthies v. Barron, 16 Mich.App. 246, 167 N.W.2d 784, 785 (1969)); Conlin at 359. “The standards for obtaining such an extension are stringent.” Id. In Conlin, supra the Sixth Circuit, citing El-Seblani, stated:

“Whether the failure to make this showing [of fraud or irregularity] is best classified as standing issue or as a merits determination, one thing is clear: a plaintiff-mortgagor must meet this ‘high standard’ in order to have a foreclosure set aside after the lapse of the statutory redemption period.”

In Michigan, a claim of fraud requires the following: “(1) That defendant made a material representation; (2) that it was false; (3) that when he made it he knew that it was false, or made it recklessly, without any knowledge of its truth, and as a positive assertion; (4) that he made it with the intention that it should be acted upon by plaintiff; (5) that plaintiff acted in reliance upon it; and (6) that he thereby suffered injury.” Hi-Way Motor Co. v. International Harvester Co., 398 Mich. 330, 336, 247 N.W.2d 813, 816 (1976). “The absence of any one” of these elements “is fatal to a recovery.” Id. (Internal citations omitted). The purpose of Rule 9(b) “is to alert defendants ‘as to the particulars of their alleged misconduct’ so that they may respond.” Kanouno v. Sun Trust Mortg., Inc., 2011 WL 5984023, *4 (E.D.Mich.2011) (Rosen, J.) (citing United States ex rel. Bledsoe v. Cmty. Health Sys., Inc., 501 F.3d 493, 503 (6th Cir.2007)).

*8 While Plaintiffs may use the term “fraud” in their counter-complaint, that claim appears to be based primarily on the Due Process and “improper foreclosure” arguments that I have previously rejected. They have not stated any other facts that could plausibly establish fraud under Michigan law. Thus, the redemption period having long expired, they do not have standing to challenge the foreclosure sale.

IV. CONCLUSION

For these reasons, I recommend that Defendant Freddie Mac’s Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings [Doc. # 12] and Defendant FHFA’s Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings [Doc. # 11] both be GRANTED, and that the Plaintiff’s counter-complaint be DISMISSED WITH PREJUDICE.
